Employment of Negro Toolmakers Not Increased Much, Despite Requests

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—When thousands of Negro toolmakers in the South and Midwest have been asked to work in the defense industry, the results have been disappointing. According to a survey by the War Relocation Authority, only a small number of these toolmakers have been employed in the defense industry.

Statistics gathered by the authority of the War Relocation Authority show that in the South, only a small number of Negro toolmakers have been employed in the defense industry. In the Midwest, the results have been even less encouraging. The authority has found that in the South, only a small number of Negro toolmakers have been employed in the defense industry. In the Midwest, the results have been even less encouraging.

Dictator Complex

In spite of the publicity limelight which James C. Petrella has recently enjoyed, he is merely a type of the dictator complex which is a permanent threat to free nations, to business corporations, labor unions and large organizations of all kinds. This is as such a thing as a dictator complex, a real disease which infects certain minds today just as royalty once held to the theory of the divine right of kings.

Teddy Roosevelt was the first prominent American in modern times who had some faint complex about ruling with a "big stick." But the first Roosevelt would have been a very benevolent dictator if dictators had been in style in his day. There are benevolent dictators just as the world has always had benevolent kings and masters. Stalin of Russia is today an outstanding example of a benevolent dictator. Politicians have tried to raise the scarecrow that Franklin D. Roosevelt has the dictator complex, but such men as President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill are not the type and could not be real dictators, no matter how much power was given them. They are humanitarian, too much so to order American and British soldiers into positions that would sacrifice men as the dictators sacrifice them.

Petrella has most of the earmarks of the true dictator complex. The true dictator, whether he is the head of a big corporation, a labor union or of some government, usually comes up from the bottom. Due to such an origin he can usually make great gains about being for the common man, and many of the common people are deceived. But the history of the race shows that the worst tyrants is the most crawl to the poor, are those that may have come up from the bottom. In the history of business corporations some of the worst abusers of labor have been men who themselves came up from the ranks.

Hoey Long, definitely a dictator type, had most of these earmarks. They always have some big plan to help the poor. John L. Lewis, a current dictator complex shows that America may have reached that stage when it will produce a regular crop of dictator types. It is something to think about, for we are already breeding them on our own soil, not all the dictator embryos are overseas.

It is perhaps true that dictators only begin to grow when there is poverty or underprivileged groups, or racial oppression, or unusual economic conditions.

Petrella and his kind serve to focus attention upon labor unions and to give the whole cause of labor a black eye. Petrella gets a lot of attention because he reached out to wealthy men, and money is a thing of the heart and the emotions of the common people. The many editorial condemnations that have appeared in newspapers in all parts of the country indicate there is a strong popular feeling against any dictatorship in the field of union.

But if you want to find the real hate for Lewis, Petrella and their kind, you will find it among those liberals of today who have much hope for the cause of labor. They are also the ones who have an understanding sympathy for the union dictators.

These liberals know the thing that produces Lewis, Petrella and the scores of gangsters who make a racket of unions is the whole black and filthy record, stained with blood, of the opposition of American business to organized labor. The only answer to the opposition which business has put up there the years is dictators, gangsters and racketeers.

The opposition and bloodshed are not a thing of the past by any means. The Memorial Day Massacre in Chicago still makes the land shiver, and the corrupted mouthings of the big newspapers still go on.

The worst part of it is that there is not one business man in ten thousand today who has any intelligent conception of the whole problem involving labor. Hence the opposition continues, gangsters get control of unions, and the whole merry racket goes on.

Liberals had some hope that business would see the light when Mrs. Perkins was made Secretary of Labor under Roosevelt, but find the head of a business firm today who knows what the idea was about. In the United States there were two outstanding symbols of the ideal form of trade unions—John Winant and Madam Perkins. Roosevelt made one Secretary of Labor and sent the other to head the labor section of the League of Nations. It was a great dream, Mr. Roosevelt, but American business just didn't catch on. The war made Winant useful as our ambassador in London, but he may yet be able to get the idea over to American businessmen—if the battle between business and labor is not too far gone.

Fight Lewis and Petrella and all the gangsters that get control of unions? Yes. But before you say a word against the worst of them, be sure you know about the whole black record of business opposition that has made include such dictators in labor unions the natural and necessary outcome.

AOLAC Men Report on Senate Committee Hearing

Robinson and Mohr fly to Washington to present plea for lower pinball tax

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28.—A full report of the appearance of representatives of the Associated Operators of Los Angeles County before the Senate Finance Committee in Washington earlier in the month is expected to be forthcoming. It is a much longer report, held in the hands of the committee, than the one given by Robinson and Mohr last week. The report is expected to be a full report of the committee's findings on the industry, and to be a full report of the committee's findings on the industry, and to be a full report of the committee's findings on the industry.

Associated Press Release Errs

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—The Associated Press in its recent news release on the total federal excise tax collection from coin machines made a serious error, according to the coin machine trade.

The AP release is used by practically all newspapers began with this statement: "Coin machine trade and slot machines are illegal in a large part of the country."

Lead-in to the coin machine trade points out that the legislation that pinball games are legal in most States is a serious error. Several States now collect a license tax from pinball games and over 900 cities in nearly all States of the Union also collect a license tax on the games.

It is an accepted fact that pinball games can be a legitimate amusement in more than 50 per cent of the States and are called illegal only during three periods: political elections that come off on Thursdays.

No Pinball—More Crime

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—It is just a coincidence, but recent reports by the FBI on crime during the first half of 1962 shows that the four large cities preferred for having well-pinball machines also have the largest crime rates.

It is also a coincidence that three well-pinball machines have all used the argument that banning pinball games helps to prevent crime. Chicago topped the list for robberies. Chicago has banned pinball games for years.

Chicago was second, Los Angeles third and New York City fourth. New York City had the murder cases.

FBI report shows these four cities as leading the list in practically all crimes.

The report is directly not known as a pinball crusade. However, the only reason these banned pinball games following a general gambling crusade.

The mayor of New York, Chicago and Los Angeles have obtained much newspaper publicity by their crusades against pinball games.

Massachusetts Ops Get Organization Into Working Trim

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—The first general meeting of the New England Association of Massachusetts was held August 28 at the Boston Hotel, Boston.

William J. Dwyer, who spent the past three months in trying to get the association into the new year, said that the meeting was the first of its kind in the history of the association. The association is a non-profit organization, and its purpose is to promote the interests of the amusement machine industry in Massachusetts.

The enviable reputation the J. P. Seeburg Corporation has enjoyed with the music operators of America proves that the pioneering spirit pays big dividends. Illuminated, decorative cabinets—Ear Level Tone Reproduction and Wireless Remote Control Music Systems are all Seeburg originations—developed by Seeburg designers and engineers. We are justly proud of the part we have taken in the past, and proud of the part we are taking in the war effort of the present. And in the future—when the war is won—operators can again look to Seeburg for ideas and means for the greatest of all operating eras.

War and gas rationing are forcing people to seek entertainment closer to home—are changing many an ordinary location into a boom spot overnight.

Aggressive Music Merchants are finding the Wurlitzer Model 430 Selectee Organ Speaker a powerful play stimulator for their locations in these war-bom centers.

See YOUR Wurlitzer Distributor now, if YOU would capitalize on this condition, while these popular speakers are still available.
